The Most Delicious Pie

My grandma decided to make a pie. Since she's from the south, she said it was a southern pie, but where we're from, we say it's a pecan (puh - nee) pie. We have different dialects, we both agree that it'll be in our new old cookbook. It had a dialogue about how to make a pie with dried beans or rice before you add the pie filling. My grandma dialogued about how to do this and then opened the oven. We put the pie crust in. Once the pie crust baked, we added the rest of the ingredients. Soon it was finished, and it was time to enter to cool. My grandpa teased us saying that he had a pie the whole thing himself! My grandma smiled and asked me to cut the pie in half across its diameter. Then she asked me to do smaller slices. I knew her hands must be hurting since the arthritis was the basis of arthritis, so I was happy to help. We all agreed to eat the pie heaven!

THE TEACHER NEXT DOOR

At The Teacher Next Door, we know that you strive to be an effective reading teacher while maintaining a healthy work-life balance. In order to do that, you need resources that are impactful, yet simple. The problem is that most reading resources and curriculums out there are far from simple. The pages upon pages of daily lesson plans are just plain overwhelming. We believe teachers should be living their lives outside the classroom, and not spending hours lesson planning and searching for resources.

Now, more than ever, teachers need space to be themselves which is why we create and support teachers with timesaving tips and standards-aligned resources.

We can't wait to help you get started.
